

Help build leaders: Volunteer at Construction Week

Company Advisors
You are invited to share your time and experience with high school students in an intensive week-long program developing teamwork, business and leadership skills.

What is “Construction Week?”

Construction Week is an exciting and unique experience for high school students. Mentored by a volunteer from the construction industry, students spend an intensive week as a “general contractor,” learning business, teambuilding, leadership and life skills. It’s a crash course in the challenges and opportunities of life after high school such as preparing for a career, workplace issues, managing money, networking skills, business ethics and so much more!

Students are part of a small team (“company”) of students from around the state. As a mentor “Company Advisor,” you will help your “general contractors” complete real-life scenarios using the “Build a Home of Your Own” computer simulation. They’ll compete against one another in the world of construction, marketing and finance. Throughout the week you’ll have the opportunity to network and enhance or develop your skills in leadership, small group management, finance and general business management.

Judges are also needed!

At the end-of-the-week, the companies compete in a Trade Show and make a Stockholder’s presentation. Volunteers from the business community judge the presentations and “invest” venture capital in the companies of their choice. Judging requires a half-day time commitment.

July 17-24, 2010
Central Washington University

1976 • Celebrating 35 Years • 2010

www.wbw.org

Construction Week is a program of Washington Business Week

Real World Experience. Life-Changing Results™

Want to know more?

Learn more about Construction Week and our programs in Business, Health-care and Manufacturing at www.wbw.org. Contact Volunteer Manager Janice Jaworski at (253) 815-6900 or janice@wbw.org.