Virtual Leadership

Changing times require changing paradigms. In these uncertain days, we are learning to navigate and create new opportunities to bring the future of learning to the students of today.

Washington Business Week is committed to the goal of fostering leadership, innovation, and an entail spirit through our leadership by teaching courses for students looking to be future business and community leaders.

Given the times we are in, Washington Business Week will be embracing the spirit of innovation by moving this year's summer leadership courses from a campus setting to an interactive online collaboration session.

This move will afford all of the same opportunities for students to collaborate with their peers and industry leaders, while learning to run a simulated business.

Don't miss your chance to be part of tomorrow's change TODAY!
